MINSTREL MAIDS ARE AT THE ODEON

Musical and Comedy Company of the Highest Class Opens Half Week Engagement.

At the Odeon theater for the first three days of this week, Manager Murray is presenting "Wadsworth Society Minstrel Maids," a singing and comedy company of the highest class, featuring that sweet singer of ballads, C. C. Wadsworth, and the inimitable black-face comedians, Charles Booth and Billy Russell.

Catchy music, pretty girls and good clean make up an evening's entertainment that has been aptly termed "a sure cure for the blues."

There is also shown a two-part Lubin feature entitled "The Sorceress," featuring Joseph Smiley and Justine Huff, and a Biograph drama entitled "Their Soldier."

Ada Lewis has made a big hit in "One Girl in a Million."

Alice Joyce, Tom Moore and an all star cast appearing in a two-part Joyce special, "The Lynbrook Tragedy," today at the Bijou theater.

Vandyke Brooke and Norma Talmage appear in a military drama, "Under False Colors," and the program closes with an Edison comedy named "Shorty."

Tuesday the popular favorite, Miss Lillian Walker, and all star cast will appear in a two-part idyllic drama, "In the Land of Arcadia."

Two youngsters long for the sights and social gaieties of the world. Making their escape from their isolated home, they reach the goal of their ambitions. They soon tire of artificialities of life and go back to nature. It is one of the best "Vitaphone" ever produced.

"Three Bolled Down Faces" by George Ade will surely please. The program will close with a Selig drama, "Tragedy that Lived."

Mrs. Leslie Carter is to present a new sketch in vaudeville.

Mary Ryan, one of the best known leading women in America, has been engaged by George Kleine to play the lead of the maid in "Stop Thief," the famous Cohan and Harris comedy, which is being filmed by the Kleine forces following the completion of "Officer 666." Mary Ryan is at present starring in "On Trial," the big hit now playing at the New Candler theater, New York.

Frances Ring will be leading lady of a stock company in Pittsburgh.

"Dough and Dynamite," a side-splitting Keystone Comedy, featuring Charles Chaplin and Mildred Norman is one of the offerings for today at the Orpheum theater. A two-reel Keystone will be shown at this theater every other Monday, starting today, so don't overlook any laughs.

Frances Ford and Grace Cunard are also seen in a great three-part detective drama, produced by the Universal Film Company. The title is "The Mysterious Hand." It is a picture full of thrills and excitement from start to finish.

Tomorrow a baffling mystery story of a dual life is shown in the photoplay, "Possessed of a Demon." This is a five-part feature with dramatic merit, and the photography is excellent. It is a second Jekyll-Hyde story.

Mike Donlin is going into vaudeville with Marty McHale, in a singing and dancing act.

It is announced that with the ending of "The Perils of Pauline," Pathe will release another serial with substantially the same cast, but showing adventures of a different sort. The remarkable success of the "Perils" has been the cause of many requests from the exhibitors for another Pathe serial with the same "unches" that have characterized the serial just ending.

"On Christmas Eve," "The Birth of Our Saviour" and "Twas the Night Before Christmas" are the three films of good cheer the Edison Company will release as forerunners

STANSBURY MAY BE 'VARSITY MAN IN 1915

Rumor Has It That He Has Booked with the 'Varsity for Next Season.

FAIRMONT, Nov. 23.—In college circles Sunday the rumor was prevalent that Harry A. Stansbury, manager of sports at Wesleyan College and prominent athlete, is to enter the West Virginia University at Morgantown next fall. No substantiation of the college map as a school that can produce sports.

The state institution at Morgantown would welcome the little hustler from Raleigh county, for he would not only strengthen their teams but he would be of great benefit to their managerial department.

Stansbury's record at Wesleyan has been a remarkable one for he not only is giving the school sports that are successful both financially and the report was at hand, but it was heard in Fairmont more than once during the day. The story, whether true or not, bears with it some interest for Stansbury has become in the public eye of the state because he is given credit of placing Wesleyan on from the standpoint of winning, but he is playing in practically every department of the games. In football he is the quarterback and practically runs the team. In basketball he is a clever player while he is a baseball pitcher above the ordinary and takes of "Merry Christmas."

Billy Burke has revived "The Philosopher in the Apple Orchard" as a certain raise for "Jerry."

Another of the popular "Blue Flame" series of detective dramas is being produced in the Selig studio at Los Angeles, Calif., under the direction of Edward J. Le Saint. It is called "The Black Diamond."

Between four and five hundred persons witnessed the magnificent moving picture production, "From the Manger to the Cross," Sunday evening at the Robinson Grand the-regular turns in the box at Buckham-

ton. His fort, though, is his ability to manage sports. He arranges important schedules, gets the teams to play them and has great crowds at the games. Many of the big football contests that have been played in West Virginia during the past years have been arranged by him. Carlisle at Clarksburg, Washington and Jefferson at Wheeling, and Wesleyan and the university here this week are results of his ability and thousands did and will attend the games.

There is no excuse for the university turning over to Wesleyan the arrangements for the local game allowing Wesleyan to have all the advantage, but that is what has happened. If the weather is anywhere near right, 6,000 people will see the sport here next Thursday and they will pay $1.25 each for the tickets. The university will get but $1,300 for its share while Stansbury and Wesleyan will get the rest, after paying the expenses which will not amount to $500. This is why Stansbury is valuable and why the university will be the winner and Wesleyan the loser if the rumor, prevalent here last night, is true.

SOUTH SIDE PARK

Will Be in Very Good Shape for the Big Turkey Day Game.

FAIRMONT, Nov. 23.—Manager Stansbury of the Wesleyan football team, is taking no chances on the surface of the field at South Side Park not being in the best of shape for the big state championship game which will be played on it Thanksgiving Day between West Virginia and Wesleyan. Arrangements have been made whereby the field will be covered the night preceding the game with a heavy layer of straw, so that regardless of the temperature the ground will not freeze and be muddy or spongy when the time for the kickoff comes.

A large force of men, also, has been arranged for, so that in case there is an extra heavy fall of snow between this time and time for the big battle that it can be shoveled off within two hours preceding the game and a good firm surface be presented upon which the warriors may match their mettle. A large part of the seats at South Side Park are covered and should there be a fall of snow it will be cleaned from those seats that are exposed and the game will proceed as though there was no interference by the elements.

after and all were so well pleased with it that the management has decided to offer it again next Sunday evening. No admission was charged but many was received in a basket at the door for the Belgian relief fund. There will be no admission fee next Sunday evening and an offering will again be taken for the Belgian relief fund.

John Bunny is rehearsing a piece called "Bunny in Fumyland," in which audiences will be shown how moving pictures are taken.

Arthur Hammerstein will present his famous New York success, "The Firefly," musical comedy opera, at the Robinson Grand, Wednesday afternoon and night, December 2, with his little pet star, Edith Thayer, in the leading role.

Mr. Hammerstein has not practiced economy in any department of this production. He has gathered together a company, even to the modest singers in the chorus, who apply themselves to the portraying of the story of "The Firefly" with a zest and in a fashion which does not fail to make the opera bright and attractive.

It is said "The Salamander" is to be revised and presented in its new form with Irene Fenwick, now appearing in "The Song of Songs," in the title role.

PARCEL POST

Insurance is Especially Advantageous during the Busy Christmas Season.

In view of the near approach of the holiday season and the enormous parcel post business which the department at Washington anticipates will result, the department has notified postmasters throughout the country to take every precaution necessary to safely and expeditiously handle the business. In speaking of the matter today, Postmaster Powell stated that the local postoffice would be prepared to properly handle all matter presented for mailing and to promptly deliver all incoming mail of every class, no matter how large the volume may be. In this connection he desires to call special attention at this time to the advantages offered patrons of the parcel post by the insurance feature of the system. It is evident that many people do not fully understand how cheaply packages can be insured and how much it adds to their safe conduct. Five cents in addition to the regular postage will insure a parcel up to the value of $25 and ten cents in addition to the regular postage will insure it to the value of $50. The advantages of this feature are not confined solely to the recovery of the value of a package in the event of loss or damage, but furnishes a record which materially aids in the recovery of a package in event of its misplacement in the mails.

The public is cordially invited by the postmaster to make specific inquiry of the postoffice, either in person by telephone or mail, concerning many matters respecting the transmission of mails, which they do not understand, and such information will be cheerfully and courteously furnished; and all who desire them may obtain a complete parcel post schedule, giving full details as to the rates applicable to all zones, and other information pertaining to the same, by applying at the stamp window at the postoffice.
